Dear President Obama:

As governors of Midwestern states impacted by the recent extreme cold temperatures, we request your immediate assistance to address the current propane supply shortage and subsequent price increases. The significantly lower-than-average temperatures that continue to hit our region are resulting in greater demand for already strained propane supplies.

As Midwestern governors, we have been working in our individual states and throughout the region to manage this fuel shortage by declaring states of emergency, loosening regulatory restrictions, and providing financial assistance to those in need.

We are thankful for the recent efforts by our federal partners to assist states, including the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' expedited release of Fiscal Year 2014 Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) funds and also the U.S. Department of Transportation's (USDOT) previous hours of service waiver.

We would encourage your entire Administration, including the U.S. Department of Energy, the USDOT, the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the Small Business Administration (SBA), the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and any other relevant Federal agencies to take every possible action to help increase propane supplies through every means of transport. We encourage you to explore regulatory waivers aimed at increasing the supply of propane in our states, including an extension of the hours of service waiver and temporarily waiving weight limits on the interstate highway system. Such actions would continue to help fill critical gaps between supply and demand. We would also encourage the SBA to ease loan requirements that can help entities within our communities respond to and recover from this propane shortage.

We will continue to monitor the propane situation and utilize the tools available to us to relieve the supply shortages and to ensure families can heat their homes, livestock producers can warm their animals, and businesses can fuel their operations. Finally, state leaders would be
